

Armand is the type of agent all realtors should aspire to be! He is consistent, honest, trustworthy and there to help with everything just about any time of day! Even though we had been through the home buying and selling process before, we came away from this feeling like it was our first home buying experience because of all the information we learned from Armand throughout the transaction. We will certainly recommend Armand to others with the highest regard. Thank you again, Armand!